Swentec, the Swedish Environmental Technology Council, is commissioned by the government to develop a comprehensive and effective structure to strengthen the Swedish cleantech industry. Swentec provides knowledge about the cleantech sector, promotes good examples, and acts for increased collaboration in the area. During 2009, we are developing an action plan for increased growth and export of Swedish cleantech.

Swentec works closely with the Government Offices, shaping the government's efforts in the cleantech area through continuous dialog and bi-annual reporting. The assignment is in line with the government's overall goal to create conditions for more jobs in more and growing companies in Sweden, and at the same time meet the challenges in the area of environment and climate.
